

APM Community Downloads for Data Center RUM

APM Community Download page is now the primary distribution For DATA CENTER RUM and related Products

As of October 6th, 2014, all APM product downloads are accessible from a single convenient location! Data Center RUM and its family of products now offer new Releases and full service packs directly from the APM Community Downloads page. These product download pages offer a choice of either the individual components that make up Data Center RUM or complete ISO images.

The process for customers to obtain new release License Keys remains the same for Data Center RUM and related products. Compuware's Worldwide License Management team will continue to distribute License Keys for new and existing customers. The notification email from License Management will now include the License Key and a link to the APM Community for the product download.

In line with this change, Compuware will no longer be distributing the Data Center RUM and related products on DVDs.

If you have any questions, please contact your Account Representative or Ron DeMarco.
